

BIOGRAPHY

Makoto Taniguchi

Prof. Dr. Makoto Taniguchi is a groundwater hydrologist and a deputy director-general at the Research Institute for Humanity and Nature, Japan. He is a former Vice President of International Association of Hydrogeologists, and a former President of Japanese Association of Groundwater Hydrology. He is now a Cooperation Member of Science Council of Japan, and a Steering Committee member of Future Earth Water-Energy-Food Nexus KAN (Knowledge Action Network). He served PI and Co-PI of many research projects including UNESCO-GRAPHIC, Groundwater in Asian Megacities, Water-Energy-Food Nexus, and Belmont Forum SUGI Food-Energy-Water NEXUS. He has worked on groundwater-related projects around the world, authoring or co-authoring over 180 articles and 8 books.